IN THE SOCIAL WORLD

Baron Rosen Departs on His First Trip Home.

SOCIETY ATTENDS BALL GAME

Miss Lacey Stuart Johnston becomes Bride of Mr. Preston Williamson Smith—Engagement of Miss Elizabeth Du Pont to Mr. Thomas P. Bayard Announced—Social Notes.

Baron Rosen, Russian Ambassador to this country, sailed yesterday for Russia on the first visit he has made home since he came here three years ago, in time to attend the Peace Conference at Portsmouth. He will join the Baroness Elizabeth and their daughter, the Baroness Elizabeth, who spent the winter in St. Petersburg, and they will return here together in October.

Society paid tribute to the great American ball game yesterday afternoon. Boxes and front seats were occupied by prominent officials in public life, who in many instances were accompanied by the women of their families. Representative and Mrs. Longworth occupied a box with a party. Senator W. Murray Crane, with Mrs. Crane and some of her friends, also occupied a box.

Mrs. Fairbanks, wife of the Vice President, was at home yesterday afternoon informally to a large number of callers.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Brownson entertained at dinner last evening.

Miss Lacey Stuart Johnston, daughter of Mrs. S. Lacey Johnston, whose summer home is "Broadview," at Ballston, Va., and niece of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson B. Lacey, of this city, was married last evening to Mr. Preston Williamson Smith, of Portland, Ore., son of the late Mr. Preston C. Smith, of that city.

The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock in St. John's Episcopal Church, by Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, in the presence of a large company of relatives and friends.

The church was decorated with spring flowers in mixed colors. The regulation tall palms, ferns, and spring foliage were used as background for lavender, rhododendrons, and dogwood blossoms, with daisies, lilacs, and sweet peas intermingled.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Ruth Syphed Clement, of New York, formerly of this city, and a former schoolmate of the bride. The best man was a cousin of the bridegroom, Mr. Leland Vincent Smith, of Portland.

The ushers were Mr. Carl Mirek, Mr. Basil de Lashmott Boteler, Mr. Robert Gordon Finney, Mr. William F. Lemmon, and the two brothers of the bride, Messrs. Thomas H. Johnston and Mr. Hoyt L. Johnston.

Mr. H. H. Freeman, organist of St. John's, gave a short organ recital preceding the ceremony, and played the wedding march.

The bride wore a charming gown of white chiffon cloth, made over chiffon and satin. Her tulle veil was held with a coronet of orange blossoms and lilies of the valley, and white sweet peas. Her only ornaments were gifts of the bridegroom, a diamond pendant and a bracelet of much antiquity, given the bridegroom's great-grandmother on the occasion of her engagement, and considered one of the most valuable heirlooms in the family.

The maid of honor wore white chiffon over white silk, made in semi-empire effect, with yellow accessories. She carried an old-fashioned hat, hand-filled and running over with yellow daisies, sweet peas, lilies of the valley, with a touch of pink in tiny roses.

A reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lacey, with whom Miss Johnston has lived a great part of her life, followed the ceremony. Only the relatives and close friends were the guests.

Immediately after the reception the bride and bridegroom left for a short bridal trip. They will return to Washington to remain until the middle of May, when they will make a trip to Alabama, to visit the old home of the bridegroom's family, and proceed thence to their future home in Portland, Ore.

Among the out-of-town guests were the mother of the bridegroom, Mrs. Preston C. Smith, of Portland, Maine. She wore a gown of pearl gray mousseline de soie, elaborately embroidered with white silk, and trimmed with rose point lace. She wore as an ornament an exquisite miniature of her great-grandfather, Maj. Robert Searcy, of the Revolutionary army, an intimate friend of the Marquis Lafayette, who visited him many times in his home in Alabama.

Mrs. Lacey wore a gown of pale green Julia cloth made over chiffon and silk of the same shade, and trimmed with duchesse lace.

Mrs. Johnston, mother of the bride, wore London smoke chiffon, made over gray satin, and trimmed with point applique lace.

Miss Johnston was one of the most popular girls who graduated from the Western High School, and has been the recipient of scores of beautiful testimonials of friendship and regard.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will arrive in Portland about June 1, where their home is awaiting them.

The engagement was announced yesterday in Washington of Miss Elizabeth Du Pont, daughter of Mrs. and the late Dr. Alexis Du Pont, to Mr. Thomas P. Bayard, son of the late ex-Secretary of State, Thomas P. Bayard, who was also Ambassador to Great Britain.

Mr. Bayard is a lawyer and Democratic State chairman of Delaware, and one of the popular bachelors in Wilmington.

No date for the wedding is announced.

Miss Georgie C. H. Rixey was married yesterday at noon to Dr. John A. Broadus Sinclair, of Charlottesville, Va. The ceremony was performed in the home of the bride, in Sixteenth street, by Rev. E. L. Goodwin, of Fairfax, Va. Miss Rixey was given in marriage by her father, Mr. C. F. Rixey, and was attended by her sister, Miss Lulu Henry Rixey, as flower girl; Miss Elizabeth Endicott, maid of honor; and Miss Julia Hawes, Miss Virginia Hawes, Miss Annie Sinclair, and Miss Glenn Sinclair, sisters of the bridegroom. W. H. Rixey, brother of the bride; J. G. Hiden, and C. H. Sinclair, an uncle of the bridegroom, all of Culpeper, Va., were the ushers.

The bride wore a gown of heavy white satin, trimmed with panne velvet and lace. Her bouquet was a shower of lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Endicott, was gown in white net and lace, and carried a bouquet of roses. The flower girl, Miss Rixey, wore a dress of white batiste and French embroidery, and carried a basket of sweet peas.

The wedding breakfast which followed the ceremony was attended by a large number of friends and relatives from Virginia and Washington.

Dr. and Mrs. Sinclair left later in the day for a wedding trip to New York and other points of interest in the North. After about May 1 they will be at home in Charlottesville, Va., where Dr. Sinclair is a practicing physician.

Miss Alta Mathewson Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Caldwell Jenkins, was married last evening to Mr. Paul Yates Waters in the home of the bride's parents, 1300 Irving street.

The ceremony was performed by the father of the bridegroom, Dr. Charles H. Waters. The bride was attended by her small cousin, Master Garnet Ingram, and the bridegroom's little niece, Miss Dorothy Haddock, was ribbon bearer and flower girl.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Dr. Charles L. Waters.

The bride's gown was an imported point d'Alencon lace over white silk, made in modified empire style and trimmed on the bodice with white satin and baby Irish lace. Her veil of tulle was held with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and lilies of the valley.

The gown of the little flower girl was of white silk, with a long train, and she wore a gown of dark blue cloth, with straw hat and blue plumes.

They will be at home after May 15 at "The Briars," Riverside Park, Fairfax County, Va., the country home of the bride's parents, near Mount Vernon.

DR. PAGE'S BIRTHDAY

Also Anniversary of Bard of Avon's Birth and Death.

DR. HADLEY CHOSE SAME DATE

William Wadsworth departed this life on April 23, 1850, and James Anthony Froude came into it thirty-two years to the day before that—Virginia 55 Years Old.

April 23, in the history of the world, seemed to be the day when literary luminaries came into this world or went out of it.

Beginning with living authors and one whose home has been in this city for many years, and whose fame is everywhere, Thomas Nelson Page celebrates his fifty-fifth birthday anniversary, today. He was born April 23, 1853, on the Oakland plantation, in Hanover County, Va.

Mr. Page is the creator of "Mars Cluin," and "Col. Carter," and has made a marked success in portraying the dandy of the Old Dominion of before the war, and the chivalrous gentlemen who fought for the cause for the Confederacy.

Now Type Die Away.

Mr. Page was only a lad when the civil war ended, and the favorite characters of his pen began slowly to die out. He attended Washington and Lee University, and later graduated from the law department of the University of Virginia. He practiced law in Richmond from 1875 until 1893.

He has written many stories, among the most famous being "Mars Chan," "In Old Virginia," and "Red Rock."

Another writer of note who celebrated his birthday today is President Arthur Twining Hadley, of Yale University, born at New Haven, Conn., on April 23, 1856, the son of James H. Hadley, himself a professor of Yale University. He studied at Yale, where he graduated in 1878. He later studied in Berlin University, and was professor of political sciences at Yale from 1884 to 1889.

Wedded a Connecticut Girl.

President Hadley married Miss Helen Harrison Morris, daughter of Gov. Morris, of Connecticut, in 1881.

William Wordsworth, poet laureate, died April 23, 1850.

James Anthony Froude, historian, was born April 23, 1818.

To crown the chapter, William Shakespeare was born April 23, 1564, and died on the same date in the year 1616.

FOR THE SAKE OF CHARITY.

"The Prince of Parnassus" continues to draw large audiences.

The "Prince of Parnassus," given for the benefit of the Junior Republic, is proving the most successful amateur entertainment ever given in Washington. Since the enthusiastic opening Monday night, the Belasco Theater has been crowded at every performance, and the seat sale for the rest of the week indicates that the theater will be crowded every night.

The show gets better as it proceeds. The clever company of amateurs seems to gain confidence with each performance.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Leach, whose ability as a stage director and producer is manifest in this production, has been working hard, and with excellent results, to eliminate the few ragged spots that were visible on the opening night.

By an inadvertence of the publisher of the programme, the fact that Miss Sessions sings a "hit" song, which turned out to be one of the most enjoyable numbers.

MISS SESSIONS.

Whose comedy work as Miss Austen from Boston is one of the hits of the show.

hers, was omitted. Miss Sessions plays the eccentric character part of "Miss Austen from Boston," an old maid aunt, and her acting and make-up are decidedly clever. A great many of the laughs with which the piece is filled are due to her clever work.

Last night she received a number of encores. The work of Miss Spofford, Miss Converse, Mrs. Lee Phillips, Miss Collins, and Mr. O'Connor has taken on quite a professional air, and many a pretentious professional musical comedy might envy the clever work of the famous Washington beauty chorus. The only matinee given will be on Saturday.

After the performance last night Mr. Burr McIntosh, of New York, took flashlight pictures of the company in the various scenes, for publication in a New York magazine.

To-night will be D. A. R. night, and the house has been practically sold out to members of this organization. Among the prominent boxholders to-night will be Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, Mrs. Ackert, and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. Yesterday a messenger from the White House went to the theater in an effort to secure good seats for the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, but none were to be had. It is thought that the President and Mrs. Roosevelt will be the guests of the Longworths to-night.

EUROPE TO BE REPRESENTED.

International Supreme Lodge, Order of Good Templars, to Assemble.

Large delegations from England and Northern Europe will attend the session of the International Supreme Lodge of the Order of Good Templars, to be held in this city, beginning June 2.

The local committee, under the direction of Capt. Daley, grand chief templar of the District, is arranging for a series of excursions in and about Washington. There will be public lectures, sermons, and receptions in various churches on Sundays during the session.
